STORYLINE: "Honey I'm Home" is a short comedy where two people's lives seemingly unravel during a phone call. Chloe returning home early from a business trip wants to surprise her partner Tylor. Hiding in the bathroom she calls him on her cell phone. While the two are talking Tylor's new fling Alice arrives. Tylor doesn't know that Chloe is calling from their bathroom, and Chloe doesn't know that Tylor is cheating on her at that very moment in their living room.

[CHLOE] 25 to early 30s, Chloe is sexy and intelligent. She has risen quickly in the business world at a very young age. Away from work she likes to walk on the wild side, and is willing to try almost anything. She has a sense of humour, and loves to role-play with Tylor. Chloe can be a little vain and materialistic at times. Confident, persuasive and determined, she gets what she wants. If she doesn't... look out!

[TYLOR] 25 to early 30s, Tylor has offbeat good looks, with an artistic and easy-going nature. He really should be going somewhere with his life by now, but has no interest in a career path like his partner Chloe. He's funny, witty, and very urban, happy to have escaped his suburban roots. Tylor is still somewhat of a boy, but he's grown up enough that women are seriously attracted to him. The problem is... he can't resist them. Tylor's a womanizer with a heart.

[ALICE] 20 to 27, Alice is fun, spunky, and beautiful. A boundless supply of energy is attached to her expressive personality. At times she tends to wear her emotions on her sleeve. Alice is sexually adventurous and open-minded. Being a generous and sympathetic person she generally gives more than she gets back. People are inclined to take advantage of Alice's good nature.
